

The Definitions of Peer-Review and Refereed Journal

Jeffrey J Wolynski

January 31, 2013

Jeffrey.wolynski@yahoo.com

Abstract: Scientific definitions for peer-review and refereed journal are given so that the reader can clarify the real meaning of these terms and their real purposes.

Peer-review: The system university faculties and staff use to censor new scientific ideas that threaten their careers and belief systems

Refereed Journal: A journal used to publish scientific ideas that pose no threat to the careers and belief systems of university faculty members and staff