

A Short Analysis of an Extraterrestrial Spaceship Flyover in China

Jeffrey J Wolynski

March 8, 2013

Jeffrey.wolynski@yahoo.com

Abstract: A few notes are taken concerning the extraterrestrial spaceship that appeared over China. Some characteristics are noted and the video is referenced on the second page of this paper.

An extraterrestrial spaceship was filmed over China, which subsequently left the area it was hovering at great velocity as to appear to vanish. By analyzing the video some conclusions can be made concerning this spaceship which are listed below:

1. There are 7 bright lights arranged in a heptagram configuration around the craft when it leaves the area.
2. The craft is witnessed to disappear as if it literally becomes a giant photon.
3. There also appears to be a glowing sort of plasma that surrounds the craft right before it vanishes.
4. It emits a high pitched frequency as it charges up and vanishes. This sound is around 15,000 hertz around the higher end of human hearing. The sound is similar to a cathode ray tube in old television sets as any sort of connection made would be up to the reader to discern.
5. The craft is blackish as it hovers and no lights are present during this.
6. The lights forward and aft of the craft light up stronger in the direction of travel, which could possibly show that the lights somehow signify the direction the craft will be travelling.
7. No sonic boom except for the high pitched noise before transitioning.
8. It is hovering without a sound. Modern aircraft are much louder, this signals that what ever is allowing the craft to remain stationary it is not disrupting the conditions of the air.
9. Most importantly this object has not been reported by any government or acknowledged by any institutional establishment. The government would simply maintain a state of plausible deniability, as this craft is clearly not of our current technology and clearly possesses the ability to fly circles around F-22's.

References

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8i9grhd2Ais>

For the reader to look up tens of thousands of reports of objects similar to this that are not acknowledged by the U.S. Government because of their stance of plausible deniability and clear technological inferiority:

<http://nuforc.org/>