

Title: Gravity according to my new theory of everything.

Author: Yahya Awad Sharif Mohammed

Abstract: This article aims to explain gravity theoretically according to my new theory of everything.

Article:

In physics there is mass and energy , mass represents resistance , energy is transformed using a force applied to resistance to have specific effect, in gravity the effect is the curvature of 2dimensional space , the mass M making the curvature applies the force to make this curvature making energy transformation to space in the form of potential energy , this force will press space to displace it, supposing that the mass already did not exist , its existence will press the space and displace it , the resistance is the space itself -supposing space some kind of mass-space being some kind of mass is as a result of an absence of space due to the existence of mass M itself .

The other mass m resists the curvature of space “here curvature of space is some kind of mediator applying a force on mass m ending up with acceleration a.”

Another explanation is a mass by its displacement to space will make a hole of absence in space by a specific force, as a reaction space will exert the same force on the mass; making it specific amount of pressure on the mass, but as a collection of all masses in the universe, space will exert other forces on these masses to collect them to one place, causing gravity. The closer the masses are the more control space is having on them and the more force between the masses.

My new theory of everything link:

<http://vixra.org/abs/1804.0100>