

as a hypothesis a mass takes more volume outside of itself than inside of itself and that this mass(an accumulation of photons) which have separation between themselves inside a mass